2.21- Radiesthesia instruments: amplifiers of what the body captures

The different types of radiesthesia instruments have the sole purpose of amplifying the radiations that the physical body captures and that comes from the electromagnetic field of the person who does this or that reading. It amplifies, in no way moves by itself, the kinesthetic micro variations of the body. It is the trained human body that can become an adequate receptacle to perceive very subtle variations of people or places and be amplified by radiesthesia instruments.

They themselves have good or bad morphic resonance with the emotions, thoughts or sensations of measured bodies or places. When we see a dowser act and move their rods who is moving is himself. If you are a trained person, you will move them when your body detects an energetic variation. If it is not, it will be your
